

User privileges and template file bugs are fixed

Author: Cougar Liu<liucougar@scim-im.org>

Just discovered that self-registered users do not have enough privileges to add comments and use the top two options in their Account toolbox on the right. These have been fixed.

These bugs prevented self-registered users from modifying their own information and password. What's more, even after they logged in, they still could not leave comments to any pages in this site.

Now all known issues should have been fixed.

If you find any other issues related to our website, please leave comments (yes, this time you definitely can) or add bug reports in our bug tracking system.
